

Remembrances of Past Reunions

"Everyone seemed to enjoy every moment such as greetings in the morning, music in the auditorium, lectures... My memory must stay beautiful and peaceful."

Yoko Kitagawa
Class of 1965
(having travelled from Japan)

"What an extraordinary weekend filled with wonderful memories and opportunities for reconnecting with the university and learning about its progress since I graduated."

Cynthia Young Schuette
Class of 1967
(having travelled from Santa Cruz, California)

"...the 2007 reunion was superb. Everything and everyone was ichiban—food, speakers, musicians, tours, etc."

Peggy Buchwach
Classes of 1982 and 1986

Don't miss this opportunity to reconnect with friends and rediscover UH! Bring friends and family!

Featured Speakers

Panoramic Survey Telescope & Rapid Response System (Pan-STARRS)

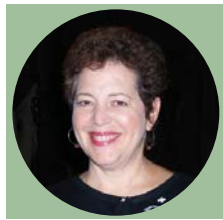

---

Robert Jedicke received his PhD in experimental particle physics from the University of Toronto, Canada. After a brief stint in the professional Canadian Football league with the B.C. Lions, he held post-doctoral positions at Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory in Batavia, IL, and at the University of Arizona's Lunar & Planetary Laboratory where he worked on the Spacewatch near Earth asteroid survey. He came to the UH in 2003 and is currently the manager of the Pan-STARRS moving object processing system that will discover more asteroids and comets each month than have been found in the past two centuries. He has discovered two comets and an asteroid is named after his family.

Alumni Who Have Made It in the Big Apple

Penny Bergman is currently the Stage Manager for the soap opera All My Children. She has been nominated for 9 daytime Emmy Awards, and won the directing category in 2003. Bergman has also been the Stage Manager for several television specials including Live from Lincoln Center and Moving Image Salutes Richard Gere (2004), John Travolta (2005), and Ron Howard (2006).

Harold Koda is currently the Curator-in-Charge of the Costume Institute of The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. Prior to being named the Curator-in-Charge, Koda served for four years at the Costume Institute, and for 11 years at the Fashion Institute of Technology where he was Director of the Edward C. Blum Design Laboratory. Koda has co-organized numerous exhibitions, co-authored 24 books, and has twice won a special award from the Council of Fashion Designers of America.

Patrice Tanaka is the Co-chair and Chief Creative Officer of CRT/tanaka, an award-winning public relations and marketing firm known for creative solutions and workplace culture. Tanaka initially founded her own firm, Patrice Tanaka & Company, Inc., after leading a management buyback from advertising agency Chiat/Day in 1990. She sold this firm to Richmond, Va.-based PR agency, Carter Ryley Thomas in 2005 to form a new agency, CRT/tanaka. Before the merger, Patrice Tanaka & Company, Inc. had won more than 180 PR industry awards and was recognized as the "#1 Most Creative PR Agency in America."

Hawai'i Sense of Place

Momi Cazimero graduated from the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa, after having been groomed in the design program established by Professor Kenneth Kingrey. In 1972 she established Graphic House, a design company to service a corporate clientele. Throughout her professional career, she remained committed to promoting and elevating images of Hawai'i that reflected her island heritage with dignity and design excellence. Momi has received the "Living Treasure Award" for her many contributions as a community advocate.

Victoria Kneubuhl is a local playwright whose works have been performed and published locally, nationally, and internationally. Kneubuhl has received many honors and awards including the Distinguished Writer in Residence Award from the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa English department in 2007, and the Hawai'i Award for Literature in 1994. In addition to stage work, Kneubuhl has written 10 documentary scripts for television and has published several short stories. Her most recent work is a full-length mystery novel entitled Murder Casts a Shadow. Kneubuhl has played a key role in the development of Hawai'i theatre, as both a writer and teacher in the community.

Mary Philpotts McGrath is the founder and inspiration behind Hawaii's premier interior design firm, Philpotts & Associates. Philpotts McGrath's design philosophy of creating timeless, people-friendly environments in combination with her deep roots in Hawai'i and affection for all things Hawaiian, have won her firm high profile projects such as the Hawaii Convention Center, W Honolulu, Hokua and Kapi'olani Medical Center. Philpotts McGrath is the author of the best selling book, "Hawai'i: A Sense of Place." She recently opened a showroom in the firm's new building on South School Street.
